In this lecture, Eric Tang revisits the summer of 1967 to uncover the origins of the hyperghetto and the low-intensity warfare that has since been waged against its mostly African-American residents. Tang will also draw on themes from his new book Unsettled to discuss how refugees from the US war in Southeast Asia—particularly Cambodians—became the lone “new immigrant event” to hyperghettos. He asks: What does it mean for these Third World migrants to resettle into this distinct time and space of slavery’s afterlife?

Eric Tang is an Assistant Professor in the African and African Diaspora Studies Department and faculty member in the Center for Asian American Studies at the University of Texas at Austin. A former community organizer, Tang has published numerous essays on race and urban social movements, including award-winning writing on post-Katrina New Orleans. Unsettled: Cambodian Refugees in the NYC Hyperghetto is his first book.
The Bunche Center Authors’ Series presents
Michael Ralph
Discussing his book
Forensics of Capital
Wednesday, April 13th, 2016

New York University Professor Michael Ralph will discuss his new book, Forensics of Capital. The book explores Senegal and US imperialism, in particular, the pragmatic decisions of Senegal, how those tie into its development, and how Senegal has been able to garner for international favor despite its circumstances. This event is co-sponsored by the UCLA departments of Anthropology and African Studies.

The Bunche Center Authors’ Series presents
Uri McMillan
Discussing his book
Embodied Avatars
Wednesday, April 20th, 2016

Uri McMillan, an Assistant Professor of English at UCLA, will discuss his book, Embodied Avatars: Genealogies of Black Feminist Art and Performance. The book explores how black women artists have purposefully engage in self-objectification, thus, transforming them into art objects.

Dr. McMillan will dive deeper into the intersectionalities of art, performance, and black female embodiment.
Martin Luther King, Jr. Remembrance Day
“All labor has dignity”
Tuesday, April 26th, 2016

On Tuesday, April 26, 2016, UCLA will host the 2nd Annual MLK Remembrance Day. It will showcase Dr. King's efforts to advance diversity, equity and inclusion and explore the relevance of Dr. King's legacy to ongoing challenges of today. This year's event will look at the issue of repeated blunt force trauma to the brain, promote concussion awareness, and the work that Black Bruin athlete alumni are engaged in to mitigate this challenge as well as their efforts to facilitate better career, health and quality of life outcomes among youth engaged in sports. The event will include discussion, a reception, and two screenings of the film, Concussion. Please check the Center's website, www.bunchecenter.ucla.edu for updated information as it becomes available.

The Bunche Center Circle of Thought presents
Tyrone Howard
Discussing his research
Tuesday, May 3rd, 2016

Professor Tyrone Howard is the current Associate Dean for Equity and Inclusion at UCLA. His research and teaching interests lie in multicultural education, the socio-political context of schools, and the educational experiences of African American students, among others.
Ralph J. Bunche Center Event Calendar—Spring Quarter 2016 (Continued)

UCLA Gender Studies, IRLE, & The Bunche Center Authors’ Series presents
Sarah Haley
Discussing her book
No Mercy Here
Thursday, May 19th, 2016*

Gender Studies Professor Sarah Haley sheds light on the brutality faced by incarcerated women at the local, county and state convict labor systems through her book No Mercy Here: Gender, Punishment, and the Making of Jim Crow Modernity (Justice, Power, and Politics). Haley also explores acts of resistance and sabotage—all of which challenges existing socio-political notions.

*The talk will be from 4:00pm—5:00pm in Royce Hall

Racialized State Violence in Global Perspective Conference
Keynote Speaker
Edwidge Danticat
Wednesday, May 25th, 2016 & Thursday May, 26th, 2016

The Racialized State Violence in Global Perspective Conference, co-sponsored by Dean Duranti, the UCLA Department of Anthropology, and the Bunche Center, features intellectuals from around the world who work on racialized police violence. The symposium sets a space for discussions on the global importance and implications of this issue (i.e. economic inequality, state power, racism, etc.) while also aiming to engage scholars in possible opportunities to work towards justice.

The keynote lecture will be given on May 25th followed by a panel on May 26th. Check the Center’s website, www.bunchecenter.ucla.edu for updated information on the location as it becomes available.
Unless otherwise noted Bunche Center Circle of Thought and Authors’ Series events will be held in the Ralph J. Bunche Center Library & Media Center – Haines 135 from 12:00pm – 1:00pm. These programs are free and open to the public and unless indicated, no RSVPs are necessary.

All-day parking ($12) and short-term parking (payable at pay stations) are available in Lots 2, 3 or 4 (enter the campus at Hilgard and Westholme avenues). UCLA is smoke-free and tobacco-free. The use of cigarettes, cigars, chewing tobacco and all other tobacco products, as well as electronic cigarettes, will be prohibited on UCLA’s campus and at sites owned or fully leased by the university.

GET SOCIAL— Stay abreast of Ralph J. Bunche Center research, programs, and events by subscribing to our website at: www.bunchecenter.ucla.edu

Friend us on Facebook: http://www.facebook.com/BuncheCenter.UCLA
Watch us on YouTube: www.youtube.com/user/uclabunchecenter
Follow us on Twitter at www.twitter.com/BuncheUCLA

GIVE— A gift to the Ralph J. Bunche Center is an investment in the power of human potential.

For information on how to include the Bunche Center in your giving plans, please contact Chia Yen, Executive Director of Development, UCLA Institute of American Cultures at cyen@support.ucla.edu or 310.206.6872.